Which kinds of plane may a company own?

For certain purposes, a company may own various kinds of planes to facilitate the travel for their employees. Such may include twin plane, helicopter or commercial ones. As a result, a pilot applying into such companies should be expected to have wide experience in flying various planes, although some may not be very knowledgeable about this. This is a rather demanding requirement.

Pilots have many simultaneous responsibilities during flight. What can you tell me about this?

Answer tips/answer samples:

Pilots take responsibility to navigate the flight, view and guide the activities of the team, check instruments, and keep track of the weather, control the height and air traffic. Performing all these and more, often at once, requests salient multi-tasking abilities and strong concentration.

What is the importance of proficiency in several languages for a pilot?

Answer tips/answer samples:

English language may be enough with a private pilot who only needs to understand control towers. But other pilots, who fly publicly, knowing more than one language is the need and useful.

Why do you think you would do well at this pilot job?

Q&A

Give several reasons and include skills, experience and interest.

1. I am a person that learn quickly and perform better under pressure, am a very good team player that motivate others in other to achieve the company's common goals
2. Will do well in this job because I already have previous experience in the similar field. so I will use my previous experience in this job and I am interested in learning new things and enhance my skills.
3. I believe I will do well in this job because I have the relevant skills and experience. I also have the drive, interest and determination to make a real success of this role.

What have you learned from mistakes on the pilot job?

Answer tips

Here you have to come up with something or you strain credibility. Make it small, well intentioned mistake with a positive lesson learned. An example would be working too far ahead of colleagues on a project and thus throwing coordination off.

Everyone makes mistakes, of course, but some companies are more willing to learn from them than punish those involved. You've learned that when you do make mistakes, someone is usually disappointed in the choice you made, but you have to figure it out for yourself, they might help you decide what 's right and what 'ss wrong, but you'll be the decider on which you choose. You've learned that people do care about you, and to not do it again if you don't want to.

Answer samples

Every one makes mistakes but only few people can realize there mistakes and they don't want to repeat those mistakes again..... I am the one in those few people, I don't want to repeat the mistakes which had done by me in my job/work.
